

ABSTRACT

A method and system for predicting delay of a multi-million gate sub-micron ASIC design is disclosed. The method and system include automatically partitioning a netlist into at least two logic cones, and running respective instances of a delay prediction application on the logic cones on at least two computers in parallel.

5

0997889-11301
106211-2882660